Code of Practice breach – pre-release access

Public Sector Finances, January 2009 (Office for National Statistics and HM Treasury)

HM Treasury (HMT) has reported to the UK Statistics Authority a breach of the Pre-release Access to Official Statistics Order 2008 (and therefore the Code of Practice for Official Statistics). The joint HMT and ONS statistical release Public Sector Finances, January 2009 and associated datasets were inadvertently made available, by email, to an extensive internal distribution list plus one member of staff at the Bank of England.

The Authority notes that this breach did not result in data prematurely reaching the public domain, and also notes the steps that HMT took to quickly retract the email and to prevent a recurrence.

The Authority reiterates its stance that it considers it appropriate for any official body responsible for a breach of the Code of Practice to issue an initial public statement explaining the breach on both its own website and the National Statistics Publication Hub, as soon as it is aware of the facts, and ideally no later than the time of the publication of the relevant statistics.

The Authority's breach report is provided overleaf.

BREACH OF THE CODE OF PRACTICE FOR OFFICIAL STATISTICS

A breach of the Code of Practice for Official Statistics occurs where one or more provisions of the Code were not followed in situations where an exemption or exception had not been approved by the UK Statistics Authority's Head of Assessment, as required in paragraph (xii) of the Code's preamble.

Nature of breach (including links with previous breaches, if any)

The public sector finances dataset and first release are joint ONS/HMT products. At 18:19 on 18 February the internal HMT January 2009 public sector finances briefing was accidentally sent in an email to an extensive internal distribution list, plus one member of staff at the Bank of England. The brief is marked "Restricted Statistics" and should not have been sent before 9:30 on 19 February.

Reasons for breach

3 Reactions and Impact

None – there is no evidence to suggest information was released to the public as a result of this incident.

4 Corrective Actions Taken (include short-term actions, and long-term changes made to procedures)

The email was recalled at 18:21. Everybody that had already opened the email was emailed again, telling them to delete the email and with a message explaining that email contained restricted National Statistics. The only recipient outside of HMT was telephoned and informed to do likewise. The National Statistician was informed.

We have reviewed our administrative procedures for handling the briefing email. We have put in place a new system with additional safety checks to ensure this cannot happen again.
